The ceremony took place at St. Matthew's Church, Sunday
last, July 17, when Miss Ridey Smith was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr.
Philip Hennig, son of Mr and Mrs Valentine Hennig, Stony Plain district. The service was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev E Eberhardt.

Jespersen-Krant.

A very pretty wedding was solemnised at the Glory Hills
Baptist church on Thursday
July 14, when Frieda Krant, daughter of Rev A and Mrs Krant of Forestburg became the bride of Roland Jespersen; son of Mr and Mrs A Jespersen.

The bride walked in leaning on the arm of her father, while Miss Irene Jespersen, sister of the groom, played Wedding Bells march.

The bride looked charming in a white lace dress, and carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Elsie Krant, who, was clad in a pink lace gown carrying a bouquet of sweet peas.

The groom was assisted by his brother Rouben.

Rev F W Benke officiated, choosing Ps. 128:1 as words of exhortation on their life's journey. The choir beautified the ceremony by very beautifully rendering an appropriate selection.

A reception followed at the home of the groom's parents, at which about 125 guests assembled. A sumptuous repast was partaken of,
after which toast were proposed.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. The evening was spent in games and singing. The happy couple will make their home in the Onoway district.

Restoring World Confidence.

The signing of the Lausanne treaty on July 9 by all the great European Powers, whereby all the Balkan war reparations were wiped out, and provided instead that Germany shall pay a lump sum an amount which represents one cent for every dollar demanded by the Allies after the close of the war, marks a new and an important forward step in the direction of establishing the peace of the world and in restoring the economic health of all nations.

Apart altogether from the specific agreements set forth in this historical document, and the pains thereby conferred on a long and arduous work, the fact that the great European powers, and more especially Germany and France, have at last met on common ground, and have signed a treaty as a result of consultation and compromise rather than one forced by one upon the other, is one of the most hopeful occurrences for many years.

Since the signing of the Peace Treaty, and the imposition of a war indemnity on Germany totalling the huge and impossible sum of $45,000,000,000, together with the fact that the peace treaty, having been so bitter, feelings have prevailed on the continent of Europe. Physical warfare has been followed by an ever intensified economic warfare; fortifications and barbed wire trench entanglements, cannon and machine guns have been succeeded by high and ever higher tariff barriers. Each nation has been determined to have as little trade intercourse with its neighbors as possible; each was endeavoring to economically strangle the other. There was suspicion of and fear of the other. Each depended solely on the other. Thus Europe was deadlocked, trade stagnated, all people suffered, and warlike armaments steadily increased despite all efforts to reduce and control them.

Seemingly interminable "conversations" took place between various nations, international conferences followed conference without any tangible results being achieved until confidence in the world's political leaders, and even in our existing institutions of government, was more or less shaken. Even in Western Canada leaders of certain parties and groups openly predicted the failure of this last Lausanne conference. This loss of confidence was, indeed, the world's greatest loss because it was shattering all hope of success and a way out of our difficulties being found.

The signing of the Lausanne treaty refuted the prophecies of these pessimists. It demonstrated that our statesmen are not bankrupt in vision, patriotism, or diplomacy. It has once again proven that there is always a way out if patience, persistence, tact, coupled with determination, and a will to succeed is in evidence.

To Premier Ramsay MacDonald belongs the chief credit for this great achievement. He refused at all times to recognize the possibility of failure. When the probability of getting France and Germany to agree seemed most remote, when consultation followed consultation without results, Ramsay MacDonald kept up the good fight until finally he succeeded in bringing these two historic enemies together. Justly deserved were the warm congratulations extended to him by King George. The whole world owes him a debt of gratitude. He has restored confidence in democratic institutions of government throughout the world, and has thereby paved the way for further successes at future conferences.

Besides wiping out the war reparations of $45,000,000,000 which Germany was obligated to pay, and replacing that sum with a lump sum of $500,000,000 to be paid when Germany can sell bonds for that amount, the Lausanne Treaty declares suspension of collection and payment of interest on European war debts for a time; it includes an agreement to assist Austria and the Danubian states which are in financial difficulties and whose prosperity is closely linked with that of Germany; it creates a committee to study the grain problem in the Danubian states which are embarrassed by a huge surplus; and it creates machinery for a world economic conference under the auspices of the League of Nations, in which all nations, including the United States, will participate.

The Lausanne conference did not accomplish everything that some people hoped of it, but it did succeed in making tremendous strides along the road to world betterment and a restoration of conditions which is essential should be restored before there can be a return to world confidence, world trade, world prosperity. Had that conference ended in failure, the outlook would have been dark indeed, whereas the large measure of success achieved not only means an immediate betterment, but makes possible the further coming together of the nations in a better, more hopeful, more friendly spirit to consider other problems, such as disarmament, tariff barriers, international currency problems, and allied subjects.

The world outlook is distinctly better because Ramsay MacDonald stuck to his principles and unflinchingly fought for a return to reason and world brotherliness at Lausanne.

Power Of Advertising One Of The Indispensable Tools To The World In Reconstruction Of Industry

Advertising is one of the indispensable tools to be used in the reconstruction of North American industry, was the keynote of an address to the convention of the Pacific Advertising Clubs Association, at Vancouver, by George W. Kleiser, of San Francisco. "Advertising," he declared, "is a powerful instrument which should be used with the greatest skill and care in order that the retubiding may be sound and lasting once the upturn has begun."

"With the change in the situation from one where anything could be sold that could be manufactured, to one where anything can be manufactured than can be sold—the opportunity exists for a genuine demonstration of the results that can be obtained through powerful advertising, intelligently done."

"This," he said, "should be done on behalf of meritorious products directed to a timid and doubting public through the primary media serving them."

The confidence of both advertiser and public, which to a greater or lesser degree has been shaken by extreme methods in advertising during these unusual times, must be restored. This can be accomplished only through honesty, truth and straightforwardness in advertising itself," he said. "Advertising will, no doubt, least out of the depression, and probably will be one of the first industries to recover if those to whom it is entrusted use it powerfully and sanely."

Vaccine For Tuberculosis

Discovery May Mean Partial Control Of Dread Disease

In a copyright story, the Milwaukee Sentinel said 29 years of research by Dr. William D. Frost, agricultural bacteriologist at the University of Wisconsin, have been rewarded by discovery of a vaccine "tubuvase," which ultimately may bring partial control of tuberculosis.

The vaccine is obtained from isolated tubercle bacilli treated by ultraviolet rays.

"The rays," the paper said, "effectively kill the germs of tuberculosis, but apparently produce little chemical change in their scientific bodies; and from the ray-treated bacilli the doctor obtained a vaccine which was physically harmless, yet potent enough to combat live bacilli."

Economic Conditions Of Profession Being Lowered, It Is Stated

Too many physicians are being turned out in Canada with the result the economic condition of the medical profession is being lowered, declared Dr. J. M. McCallum, Victoria University, in addressing the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons Council at Toronto.

Dr. W. Paankie, Wolfe Island, had pointed out 323 students went up for the Dominion council examination and only five were "plucked" and 42 others "referred" because they failed in one or two subjects.

Noted Inventor Passes

Death Of Mr. Gillette, Of Safety Razor Fame, At Los Angeles

King Camp Gillette, who perfected the double-edged safety razor blade, died recently at Los Angeles, at the age of 77.

The inventor and manufacturer succumbed after undergoing several operations during two years for an intestinal malady.

He went to California nearly 20 years ago from Boston, where he organized the Gillette Safety Razor Company in 1901.

His Los Angeles realty transactions were among the largest ever recorded here.

Educated in Chicago, Mr. Gillette became a salesman and later London branch manager for a bottle-stopper company. After conceiving the thin, sharp blade to overcome the task of straight-edged shaving, he devoted five years to evolving a holder.

The razor was launched as a commercial product in 1903. Only 61 sets were sold that year, but annual sales of so many as 15,000,000 razors and 1,000,000 blades followed.

Mr. Gillette was born in Fond Du Lac, Wis., January 5, 1855. His father, George Wolcott Gillette, was an inventor before him. His mother wrote "The White House Cook Book."

Great Britain Launches Move At Geneva For Conference

Great Britain has launched a move for another five-power naval conference aimed at further reduction of sea forces.

The proposal for a five-power naval conference between Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy was advanced by a high British authority in a press interview.

He proposed that it be held in the interval before the world disarmament conference resumes its activities in the fall.

A New Discovery in Feminine Hygiene

Why dabble with dangerous poisons?

Why suffer the inconvenience of preparing solutions?

Why be uncertain?

H. G. Tablets contain no poison, creosote or bichloride, yet destroy objectionable germs in a few seconds.

These Tablets are non-caustic and will not harm the most delicate tissues.

Designed to serve the most exacting requirements of feminine hygiene, and prepared so that they may be as easily available when travelling as in the privacy of one's own home. H. G. Tablets afford a safe, sure and satisfactory means of protection against the most dangerous bacteria.

Packed in a small vial containing twelve tablets, they can be carried about the body, hand bag or traveling case. Immediate availability and safe, immediate action are the merits of H. G. Hygiene Tablets.

Dainty and more white, the tablet is easily placed, and acts immediately, dissolving instantly in the natural secretions, setting to work at once as an antiseptic and functioning without injury to the delicate membrane with which it comes in contact. Not only does the tablet destroy the bacteria by contact, but the germicidal power inherent in the dissolving of the tablet has the same antiseptic properties as the tablet itself, and produces its protective efficacy for several hours. Both tablets and solutions are more powerful than any carbolic acid solutions or other antiseptic solutions used for the purpose of protection from bacteria in feminine hygiene.

H. G. Hygiene Tablets provide an effective, stainless, safe and gentle method of feminine hygiene, and meet all the requirements of the fastidious modern woman.

MEDICALLY APPROVED

Impartial bio-chemists and many well-known medical authorities have approved the formula of H. G. Hygiene Tablets and attested their harmless germicidal properties.

If for any reason doubt exists regarding the safety of these Tablets, we recommend that you take a package to your family physician and consult him regarding their harmless and efficiency.

SENT ANYWHERE BY MAIL

If your druggist is unable to supply you, or if you prefer to send direct, the coupon below and a Dollar bill will bring you a full size tube of H. G. Tablets with full directions for use.

If for any reason you do not wish to keep them, or if you prefer to return them, we will promptly refund your Dollar bill postage.

Pains In Stomach and Bowels So Bad Would Have To Sit Down

Mrs. C. Landry, Mountain, N.B., writes:—"I can certainly recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for cramps or pains in the stomach and bowels."

"Last Summer I had such awful pains in my stomach and lower part of my bowels, at times I would have to sit down. I took 'Dr. Fowler's' and was soon relieved."

"When my children were small I always kept a bottle in the house and it helped them wonderfully whenever any of them had bowel complaints."

Tree Planting On Prairies Sole Remedy For Soil Drifting And The Conservation Of Moisture

Extensive tree planting alone can save Saskatchewan from the fate which has overtaken the Sahara desert, according to Capt. Richard St. Barbe Baker, who passed through Winnipeg, on his way from the Peace River country to Toronto. As late as the time of Mohammed, Capt. Baker said, the Sahara was a well-wooded and fertile area. Then came a great influx of Arabs who, like the settlers of the western plains, cut down the trees and began farming operations. The result was to convert the once rich African plains into an arid and unsettled tract, unfit for human abode.

One of the first hundred students to attend the University of Saskatchewan before the war, Capt. Baker is now completing a tour of Canada, which he had not seen for years. He was delighted with the appearance of Manitoba, where tree protection has evidently encouraged growth. In Saskatchewan he noted the serious denuding of the plains, and based his prediction for the future upon his study of the past.

Tree planting on all rising ground, Capt. Baker declared, was the sole remedy for this state of affairs. British was resulting in a changed climate, soil drifting and desiccation. He urged upon Western Canada the adoption of the policy in force in New Zealand, where forestry was being made to pay.

In that country one private company had already sold $4,000,000 "forest bonds." The money was invested in tree-planting, and it was believed that in 12½ years from the time of planting, definite return on the investment could be expected. In the interval the trees did much to conserve moisture against climatic conditions, "Plant a tree and grow money" was the New Zealand slogan.

Capt. Baker said it was deplorable to see settlers in the Peace River country burning off the trees on their farms. This left an alkali deposit which was injurious to the soil. Instead, he advocated the construction of a plant for distilling alcohol from the trees felled, saying this would in time make Canada self-supporting in motor fuel. A new carburetor was being perfected in France which could use the gas generated by burning charcoal (made of wood). The policy of tree planting was, therefore, in his opinion, not only good agricultural insurance, but was also a policy that paid actual dividends.

Capt. Baker is the founder of a society named "The Men of the Trees," headed in England by Sir Francis Younghusband. Its aim being the protection and encouragement of forest growth. He is also an author and forestry expert, having recently been in equatorial Africa employed by the British Government—Winnipeg Free Press.

Serious Hail Losses

Heavy Damage Suffered By Farmers In Southern Saskatchewan
Hail losses in southern Saskatchewan are very serious, according to insurance officials at Regina. Heavy damage has been suffered in districts where farmers have not been able to afford insurance.

According to C. C. Cook, president of the Farmers Mutual Hail Insurance Company, claims this year have not been numerous but those which have been received are large.

Seven claims ranging up to 100 per cent. had been received from the district between Pasqua and Moose Jaw following a hail storm in that district, E. G. Hingley, secretary of the Saskatchewan Municipal Hail Association, said.

UNDoubted SLIMMING LINES AND CHIC

Suitable for normal as well as larger figures.
Seldom is a dress so smart and so slenderizing at the same time. It's the fascinating one-sided revers collar that bows at the opposite shoulder that does it.
In the original dress of black and white crepe silk print, the revers collar was of white crepe silk. The belt and buttons were also of the white crepe. The scalloped outline at the lower of the revers is particularly modish and minimizes bodice breadth.
This dress in plain navy blue crepe silk crepe silk with white trim is most effective.

Style No. 361 is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting.
Bustle prints, sheer linen tweed, sportweight linen and tub silks are smart for summer wear.
Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Echo Of The War

Lloyd George Not Impressed With Value Of The American Forces
Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's secretary of war, has revealed that David Lloyd George, then Premier of Great Britain, at one time apparently desired the removal of General John J. Pershing as commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Force in the Great War.

In a letter to Colonel Lloyd C. Griscom, former liaison officer between General Pershing and the British War Office, Mr. Baker wrote that the wartime premier complained the United States army was "perfectly useless" to the British forces and was on the verge of asking for General Pershing's recall.

At the conclusion of a dinner in London in 1919, Mr. Baker wrote Mr. Lloyd George, "with vehement emphasis, complained that the United States army in France was of no service to the British at all in spite of the fact that Great Britain had stripped necessary empire services of ships in order to carry United States troops to France, and that they had scarcely gotten to France before General Pershing pulled them away from the British and took them into his own custody on another part of the line."

"This description was most earnest and vehement, resulting in the final declaration of Lloyd George that so far as Great Britain was concerned the American army was perfectly useless and the ship service devoted to bringing them over wasted."

Mr. Baker replied that from his own observation on the front lines he was convinced that the American troops were "at least detaining that many German divisions which might otherwise be added to the concentration against the French and British." He countered with an offer to discontinue the transportation of American soldiers on British ships and move only such forces as could be carried on American vessels.

The next morning, Mr. Baker recalled, Lord Reading, former viceroy to India, said that Mr. Lloyd George "asked me to say to you that which you should think no more about the matter which he raised for discussion last night at dinner."

Helpful Evidence

A critical moment in a court case had arrived.

Counsel for defence rose and pointed his finger at the man in the witness box.

"Now, sir," he commenced, "the whole evidence hangs on the destroyed letter. Think before you answer. What did the postmark say?"

The witness went through the actions of deep thought.

"I remember," he said at last. "The postmark said: 'Every home needs a telephone.'"

Songs Of Yesterday

Old Favorites Have Strong Appeal In This Modern Age

It used to be theory of those who construct radio programs that music composed farther back than the day before yesterday was old-fashioned and ununited to the demands of an up-and-coming age. Now the program magnates are less sure of themselves and of the public taste.

The directors of a feature called "Today and Yesterday," offered by a New York station, invited their audience to specify their favorite music. Six thousand replies were received, 614 songs were suggested, and first choice, with 518 ballots was none other than our old friend, "Silver Threads Among the Gold"—written 60 years ago and enjoyed by every generation since that time.

Of the seven songs receiving the largest number of votes five were old and only one was really new. Second place was won by the fine old ballad, "When you and I Were Young, Maggie," which was written in 1840. "Parade," a melody of 1930, was third in the voting; fourth was "Old Man River," composed five years ago; and then came "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," written in 1910; Chauncy Olcott's "Wild Irish Rose," which dates back to 1890, and Carrie Jacob Bond's "Perfect Day." In the other 607 songs mentioned, the old and tried favorites predominated, and we are told, among the younger members of the "unseen audience" as well as representatives of the older generation.

Broadcasting stations which have taken a poll of preferences in the matter of instrumental music had similar experiences. They have found a great fondness for the music which everybody knows. Whether this tendency indicates anything in particular we shall not attempt to say. Perhaps, at any rate, it has had something to do with riding the air of the race of crooners, and for that we should be truly grateful.—Ottawa Journal

Fined For Shaving

McDowell's only defence was—"The lady friend doesn't like whiskers."

KING'S GRANDSON TRIES HIS LUCK

Hon. Gerald Lascelles, son of the Princess Royal and grandson of King George, was caught by the camera as he tried his luck at the Marlborough House Garden Party. He is fishing for prizes in the "pond" and must land a tin fish with his magnetic hook to be in the money.

Science is ever amazing the individual. No sooner does one marvel at a human than it becomes a commonplace beside its successor, until it would seem that the world could be surprised no more. Yet science must have many more miracles up her sleeve. One has just been revealed in London that appears to be a virtual revolution in photographic art. It is nothing more or less than the photography of the invisible. A camera was set up in Old Park, Devon, and despite the fact that haze hid the French coast from view, the printed picture showed a vast range of that coast in extraordinary detail.

The importance of this achievement is photography can hardly be overestimated. It simply means that whereas the photographer has hitherto been at the mercy of the weather, he can now disregard both rain, mist and haze, and go ahead with his work as though they did not exist. The new system enables the camera to penetrate through mist and haze and to photograph distant objects and scenes which the actual thickness of the atmosphere prevents the photographer from seeing with his own eyes, with as much detail as though the atmosphere were absolutely clear.

The explanation of the new process is so simple that even the uneducated layman can grasp it easily. One reason why we cannot see far in misty or hazy weather is because the light is scattered, or diffused, by the humidity in the atmosphere. It is also scattered on a fine day, but red light is scattered less than blue and the problem has been to use the infra-red light in the atmosphere and to exclude all other light. This has been accomplished by using a piece of dyed gelatine in front of the camera lens as a filter. This permits the permeable rays alone to penetrate and carry the image to be photographed with them. This infra-red light is invisible to the naked eye, but infra-red sensitive plates are responsive to it, and by their use and the use of the filter photographs can be taken with a telephoto camera of scenes which the naked eye cannot see.

What fascinating vistas are thus made possible to the photographer may easily be imagined. A new art has in effect been created by this simple invention which achieves so marvellous a result. Its bearing in other fields than those of art is easy to indicate. It may, for instance, play a highly important part in aerial photography, and also in pictures taken for defence purposes. More thoroughly exercised control of aerial photography is likely to follow as a natural corollary. But in so far as the art photographer is concerned, he now has a new resource from which he may draw hitherto unimagined beauties for the delectation of those who love nature in all its forms.—Montreal Star.

Contract Bridge

By Hamlin B. Hatch, Olympic Champion, Cavendish Club, Toronto

The Responding Hand—Partnership, and all the word implies, is the fundamental factor in successful contract playing. And it is in the response between partners that the precise truthful facts about the combined hands, are conveyed to the respective partners. This can be done quite accurately provided there is no interference bidding. The purpose of this article is to show methods of correct response bidding predicated on the assumption that there is no interference bidding.

The original bidder opens the bidding with a bid of one. This bid immediately tells the partner of the bidder, that the bidding hand contains at least three or four high cards, and that the original bidder thinks that these high cards, under average conditions, will take from two to three tricks against any bid the opponents may make. The bid also says, that in the declared suit, the bidder guarantees that he will take a minimum of four to five tricks, provided the deal is played in the original bid suit.

Normal expectancy in the responding hand is three taking tricks in the declared suit. The responding hand then, with three or less taking tricks in the original declared suit must deny the original bid by either a pass or another declaration. It must be firmly fixed in the mind of the player that it is on the correctness of the first response that the success or failure of the particular deal is based. And that also the function of the responding hand, is to bear the brunt of the bidding.

The responding hand has four bidding possibilities provided there is no adverse bid. These are the raise, the pass, the takeout and the jump-shift or forcing bid.

The Raise:—If it is decided to raise partner's suit, then the full raise should be given immediately. And the full raise is the number of taking tricks above the normal expectancy of three, that the hand contains. If one heart is the original declaration, and the responding hand will take five tricks with heart trumps, it has normal length in hearts, the bid of the responding hand must be three hearts.

The Pass:—If the responding hand contains no raise, no bidable suit, and less than one honor trick, the correct bid is pass. Hands which are freakish in distribution are exceptions. Freak hands may be bid with less than an honor trick.

The Takeout:—This is a bid in another suit or no trump. It must, in the early stages of the bidding, be construed by the original bidder as a denial of the original bid. In effect it may not be a denial as the responding hand may have more than normal expectancy in the original bid, but may have a powerful suit of its own. In many cases the takeout is used to find out if the hand "fits." If the two hands can support each other's bids, the hand does fit and high contracts can usually be made.

A second takeout of the original bid is a definite denial and tells partner it is best not to play the hand in the original declaration unless the original bidder's hand is exceptionally strong in the suit bid.

The Forcing Takeout is never a denial of partner's bid. In other words a forcing response should not be made, as a rule, unless the forcing bidder has at least neutral support in the original declaration. By neutral support is meant two trumps at least. However a forcing takeout may be made without even neutral support in the original bid, when the forcing bidder's suit is so strong, that, irrespective of his partner's holding in the forcing suit bid, the hand will be played in the forcing suit. It must be remembered that the forcing takeout is a definite game guarantee bid and, that after a forcing bid is made the contracting must be continued until a game contract is arrived at.

The One No Trump takeout is the only weakness bid in contract in the first round of bidding. All other takeouts or bids, with the exception of the pass, are strength calls and convey definite high card information to partner. Generally the one no trump takeout is made when the responding hand has no bidable suit and only from one to two high cards, and sometimes not even one. The bid warns partner that there is no game

Aboard the "Duchess of Bedford" the party will be augmented by an additional eight hundred hardy Scots—all homeward bound. Mary is travelling with them from Vancouver uses the one no trump takeout, whenever there is even a remote chance to better the bid, and to get into a bid which suits both hands better than the original bid. The following is an example. Original bid is one heart. Partner holds six spades to the ten spot, a singleton heart, three little diamonds and three little clubs. Partner bids one no trump, and on second round of bidding bids two spades. The hand is trickless with hearts trumps but with spades trumps will take three tricks. Original bidder, after the one no trump and the subsequent two spade bid must pass unless exceptionally strong.

In the hand, unless the original bidder has a very powerful hand. It suggests strongly that for this particular deal, the partnership must be satisfied with a partial score. Usually the no trump takeout places at least one high card in the no trump bidder's hand, but occasionally this no trump takeout should be made on a trickless hand. In other words the good player uses the one no trump takeout, whenever there is even a remote chance to better the bid, and to get into a bid which suits both hands better than the original bid.

The following is an example. Original bid is one heart. Partner holds six spades to the ten spot, a singleton heart, three little diamonds and three little clubs. Partner bids one no trump, and on second round of bidding bids two spades. The hand is trickless with hearts trumps but with spades trumps will take three tricks. New York's Leaning Tower

Unlike Wonder At Pias It Leans Different Ways

Perhaps few people know it, but New York City has its own "Leaning Tower," the new H. L. Doherty Building, but far from being like the world wonder at Pias, New York's tower leans sometimes one way, and sometimes another. When first told that it was leaning toward the north, engineers suspected an optical illusion, but accurate tests showed that the tower leaned to the south. To settle the question another test was made next day, and it was found that the tower leaned toward the west. It was finally discovered that the heat of the sun expanded the metal on one side or another, causing a variation of four inches at the top.

THE DELIVERANCE AT THE RED SEA

Golden Text: "Jehovah is my strength and song, and He is become my salvation."—Exodus 15.2.
Lesson: Exodus 13:17 to 15:21.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 37:1-7.

Explanations and Comments

The March From Egypt To The Red Sea, 13:17-14:2.—The Israelites had assembled at Bameses in the eastern part of the Delta. From there the most direct route to Canaan would have been "by way of the land of the Philistines" northeastward to the Mediterranean coast and thence northward along the maritime plain of Canaan. That way would have involved a journey of not more than two hundred miles. But the people of southwest Canaan were great warriors, and God led them not that way, "lest peradventure they repent when they see war and they return to Egypt." Instead, they took the longer route, the way of the wilderness by the Red Sea.

Now the record tells us that Moses took the bones of Joseph with him. What greater proof than the presence with him of the mummy of Joseph in its sarcophagus could the people have had of their leader's faith in their eventual settlement in Canaan?

The march proceeded from Succoth to Etham, at the edge of the wilderness of Shur, probably one of the frontier fortifications of Egypt. There they encamped. Their constant guide by day was a pillar of cloud, and by night a pillar of light, in which "Jehovah went before them." It was the pillar of light which turned southward, keeping the Red Sea on their left, till they came to Pi-hahiroth, where they encamped.

"All is of God. If He but weave His hand."

The milks collect, the rain falls thick and loud
Till with a smile of light on sea and Lo! he looks back from the departing cloud."

Roosevelt the Man

Brief Sketch Of The Democratic Presidential Nominee

The honorable and gallant gentleman, as British M.P.'s are called by their fellows, seemed the right phrase for Theodore D. Roosevelt as he stood before the Democratic convention in Chicago and accepted its nomination for president.

To one seeing him for the first time the degree of his physical infirmity, though he has made immense gains since stricken by infantile paralysis eleven years ago, was startling. He walked with painful slowness to the dais, one hand on a stout cane and the other in the arm of his towering son, James.

He had been born on New York on a rough day and this, as air travel is still comparatively uncommon in the United States, appeared to most of the delegates a highly venturesome thing to do. As he gripped the desk with both hands before speaking, he appeared to be overcoming fatigue with difficulty.

Once he was launched on his speech there was no thought of that. The governor is well over six feet tall, strongly built and apparently, but for his lameness, in vibrant health. He spoke fast and vigorously.

As a speaker he falls just short of arousing enthusiasm. Considerably more magnetic than President Hoover on the platform, he is too reserved and chooses his words too carefully to stir the passionate response that Theodore Roosevelt could obtain.

The Chicago citizens in the galleries began to leave the hall in numbers after a few minutes, but the delegates on the floor were sympathetic as he went. The unceasingly glaze of the Klieg lights and the crackle and flash of the press cameras gave the whole scene a theatrical air.

The governor spoke earnestly and with few gestures, but his face was animated and his grave lines became firmer as he made a point of going and again his brave and gay smile faded and as he raised his arm in a final greeting he was given perhaps the most spontaneous ovation of the six-day party session.

New War Toy

Great Britain Produces Super Machine Gun With Great Possibilities

Great Britain has a new war toy than can shoot faster than anything on record. It is not much heavier than the ordinary service rifle, but it is really a super machine gun firing 1,100 rounds of ammunition a minute. What is more, it is said to be easy to operate, hard to jam and, as equally important in these times, inexpensive. Uses in this rapid firing piece Germany's new bullets, which have double the velocity of those now obtainable and which penetrate half-inch chrome-nickel armor as well as five-eighths inch armor plate, and war will be even worse than Sherman said it was.—The Pathfinder.

Saskatchewan Land Settlement

Five Hundred and Nineteen Families Take Advantage Of Provincial Government Scheme

Up to July 1st, 519 families had made applications to take advantage of the Saskatchewan Government's land settlement scheme, 377 had been accepted, and 212 had been located according to figures issued by Hon. Howard McConnel, minister of municipal affairs.

The 212 families actually located have been settled in the districts of Torch River, Big River, Medstead, C.P.R. lands south of Battledore, in the Red Pheasant area, and on C.P.R. lands in the Moose Mountain reserve.

NEW INVENTION DOES AWAY WITH COOKING ODORS

Even fish and cauliflower bow down to Canapar Cookery Parchment

BETTER, CHEAPER AND EASIER COOKING

Delicious as cauliflower, cabbage and certain other vegetables are, they have imposed a heavy penalty on people who seriously cooked them. Not to mention those who had to suffer the odor without enjoying the finished product. The same thing is equally true of fish.

Canapar Cookery Parchment, a very ingenious invention, does away with this annoyance entirely. While sealing in odors, it also retains flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar actually parables the famous French method of steaming and confining food and its flavor in the closed causerole.

You buy Canapar in a large envelope of heavy sheets which may be rinsed out and used over and over again because they won't absorb odors. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you steam them, you line the steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back. You can actually cook three vegetables at once in the same saucepan, this way—save fuel—and the flavors will not intermingle.

Steamed, or boiled, fish comes out firm, solid and swimming in its own juice. No odors. No sticky steamer or saucepan to clean up afterwards.

Line your roasting pan with Canapar, then the fat and juice can't burn. Meat roasts and there is no scorching or scrying of the pan afterwards.

Many women use Canapar for a dish cloth—it is so silky and satisfactory, and doesn't spread lint.

You'll never be without Canapar once you start using it. It saves time and money. Made by the makers of the famous PARASOL Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

Special Offer

Most grocers, druggists and department stores sell Canapar, but if you haven't, just send the coupon and we'll give you a new and unique booklet entitled "Leftovers" containing one hundred recipes as a bonus for your trouble.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY PLAN IS APPROVED

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada and United States have agreed on final terms for construction of the St. Lawrence deep waterway scheme. Simultaneously, this announcement was made in Ottawa and Washington. Preparation of the treaty is under way and the document will be executed at an early date.

The United States Congress and Senate will probably give its official approval of the agreement before work is started. The Canadian parliament likewise will have to approve the treaty.

Long anticipated, the official announcement broke simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington. In the whole gamut of world engineering the project will be second only to the Panama Canal. Described officially as a means of improving and cheapening transport for a large part of the North American continent, carrying out of the project will enable vessels now commonly plying on the Great Lakes to reach the St. Lawrence ocean vessels will be able to penetrate the continent to the head of the Great Lakes.

Combined with great navigational facilities will be a very substantial power development. More than 5,000,000 horse power of electrical energy will be made available. Of this total, 2,200,000 horse power will be generated in the international section. Ontario will have the use of 1,100,000. The United States under the boundary waters treaty, will have the remaining 1,100,000 horse power. In the national or purely Canadian section, lying in Quebec province, 3,000,000 horse power will ultimately be developed. The Beauharnois power project, 30 miles from Montreal, will be utilized in the national section.

Thus—400 years after its discovery by Jacques Cartier—the St. Lawrence River by international action may go far towards revolutionizing transportation in Canada. Again, there will be the industrial activity contingent on the water power development.

Americans Hoard Cash

Stated That Billions of Dollars Withdrawn From Circulation

University, Va.—Five hundred million dollars in "centuries and grando" has been withdrawn from circulation in the United States by members of the underworld since Al Capone was arrested, and the seamy investigation was started, Robert Warren, economist, told the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs.

He estimated that Americans are hoarding $2,000,000,000 in cash. This was withdrawn mostly in hundred and ten thousand-dollar bills.

Will Not Affect Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—The decision of the Norwegian government to occupy a strip of territory in Greenland is regarded only with "academic interest" here. The matter does not affect Canada, nor has it any bearing on Canada's suzerainty over the islands of the eastern Arctic. Greenland has always been regarded by the Canadian government as Danish territory.

Subscriptions For Peace Park

Dunsmuir, N.D.—Canada and U.S. clasped hands on the international boundary in Turtle Mountain Peace Park to commemorate the long friendship of their peoples. A $5,000,000 fund is planned for it. Subscriptions of from five to 10 cents will be asked of Canadian and United States school children.

Duty On Free State Goods

Canada Stands To Benefit From Imposition Of New Levies

London, England.—The British Government has carried out its threat to levy fresh duties on goods from the Irish Free State. The revenue from the new duties will recoup the British treasury for the losses consequent on the Free State's default of land annuities.

The government's special measure passed by parliament gives the government the power to levy up to 100 per cent. ad valorem on Free State goods.

The Irish Free State commodities on which the new duties apply are principally livestock, poultry and game; butter, eggs and cream; bacon and pork.

There were reports the Canadian livestock trade in particular was already experiencing some benefit from the setback for the Irish exporters.

Soviet Acreage Is Far Below Estimate

Nearly Million Acres Less Under Cultivation This Year

Moscow, U.S.S.R.—Soviet Russia has wound up the spring sowing campaign with nearly 1,000,000 acres less than last year under cultivation. The total is nearly 15,000,000 acres below the programme.

Official figures place the total area sown on July 1 at 24,000,000, last year and 25,875,000 planned. Failure to come up to the expectations was attributed largely to the poor showing of the Ukraine where a bad drought last year caused great loss of crops and seed.

Saskatoon Expects To Effect Big Saving In Relief Costs

Saskatoon, Sask.—Archie Wilson, chairman of the committee in connection with the farm settlement scheme, reported to city council that a monthly saving in relief cost of $6,770.40 would be made, provided the 1,336 applications received by the department of the provincial government. Of the applications made 211 were British by birth, 28 naturalized Americans, 6 naturalized and 34 foreign naturalized and 34 foreign naturalized.

Mr. Wilson in his report recommended that the regular sittings to interview applicants be discontinued.

Churchill.—The first inbound freight of the season arrived here July 12, when the motor sailing vessel "Fort Severn," arrived with furs from York Factory, Severn and Trout Lake. The ship is owned by the Hudson's Bay Company, Capt. O. Morris in command. Although heavy ice packs were encountered the schooner was not bothered, and arrived here two days ahead of schedule.

The ship loaded at midnight with supplies for far north posts. The "Ocean Eagle," government trawler, is on ice patrol north of the harbor.

Oklahoma City.—The possibility has arisen that Bennett Griffin and Jimmie Mattern, whose try ended in a Russian peat bog, may step off the boat and into another plane for a second attempt when they come back from Europe.

Peter Heenan At The Throttle

Again Takes Charge As Engineer Of C.P.R. Train

Kenora, Ont.—Employees at the Kenora Canadian Pacific Railway shops saw a familiar figure in an old role recently, when Hon. Peter Heenan, M.P., who was Minister of Labor in the Liberal Government of Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, mounted the cab of No. 2 train to take charge as engineer from Kenora to Ignace.

Thirty years ago Peter Heenan first took up the throttle here as an engineer and this was only interrupted when he entered the political arena, first in the Ontario legislature and later in the Dominion Parliament when he joined the cabinet as Minister of Labor.

Now he returns to harness after a long absence, and nobody, not even Mr. Heenan himself, appears excited about it. It is just all in the day's work.

Will Seek Loan

City Of Calgary Needs Money To Carry On Relief Expenditures

Calgary, Alberta.—The city of Calgary will seek a $1,000,000 loan from the Bank of Montreal immediately, it has been decided by city council. City finances were in dire need of bolstering, it was pointed out, and if the loan is obtained the city will be able to carry on its relief expenditures, aided by the promised $250,000 support from the Dominion Government.

At present the city is in debt to the bank to the amount of $1,700,000.

John D. looks spry and active despite the fact that on July 8th he passed his 93rd milestone.

Barter Agreement

Suggestion Made That Coal Vessels From Britain Would Take Back Wheat Cargoes

London, England.—The familiar suggestion that a barter agreement should be arranged between Britain and Canada so that British vessels taking British coal to Canada would secure cargoes of Canadian wheat was again made in the House of Commons by Mrs. Ida Copeland, Conservative.

L. Hore-Belisha, parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade, said the suggestion was not practical. He had no information in regard to the nationality of the vessels in which either wheat or the 1,033,000 tons of British coal exported to Canada in the 12 months ending May 31 last, was carried, he said.

Mrs. Copeland asserted that most of the 30,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat brought to Britain in the period mentioned were carried in foreign vessels.

Ban On Saloon

Proposal Of U.S. Senator For Repeal Of 18th Amendment

Washington.—A resolution proposing a new constitutional amendment repealing the 18th amendment but outlawing the saloon, was introduced in the United States senate by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, for years one of the leading supporters of prohibition.

Senator Glass asked for immediate consideration of his resolution, but this was blocked by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

The constitutional amendment proposed by the Virginian would allow states that want liquor to have it, but would keep the saloon unconstitutional. It also would prohibit transportation of liquor into states where it is forbidden.

Rumor Not Confirmed

No Declaration Regarding a Session Of Parliament In October

Ottawa, Ont.—Confirmation of the statement attributed to Dr. W. D. Cowan, (Cons., Long Lake), that a session of parliament would be called in October could not be secured here. The last word in that respect was the statement made by the Prime Minister in reply to a question by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in the House of Commons two days prior to propagation.

Declaring he would regard it as his duty to communicate to the House any conclusion arrived at by the Imperial Conference, Mr. Bennett said he was not in a position to make any statement regarding the re-assembling of parliament until after the conference had concluded its labors.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE HAVE REACHED ACCORD

London, England.—Great Britain and France have agreed that in the future they will exchange views with complete candor on matters similar to those settled at the Lausanne Conference, Sir John Simon, secretary of state for foreign affairs, announced in the House of Commons.

First of all, he said, they will cooperate in laying out the ground for a world economic conference.

Then and thereafter they will keep each other mutually informed on any questions coming to their notice which may affect Europe as a whole. "It is to be hoped," said Sir John, "that other governments will join us in adopting this procedure."

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, surprised the House of Commons and the country with this announcement in the House.

He emphasized this agreement had no connection whatever with relations between France and the United States or between Britain and the United States, especially with respect to the war debts owed to America.

He thus made clear the accord was not to be confused with the "gentlemen's agreement" signed by Britain, France and Italy at Lausanne which will hold the Lausanne reparations settlement. It was pointed out that the United States has been heard from on the question of war debts revision.

Need Of Action

Want No Prolonged Preliminary Palaver At Conference

London, England.—Touring western Canada at the present time, Lord Rothermere, English newspaper magnate, is losing no opportunities to stress the importance of the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

His Daily Mail will feature a cable sent by Lord Rothermere from Calgary with the caption "Ottawa Must Dare and Do." He declares the empire "wants action."

"If the delegates engage in prolonged preliminary palaver the conference will be choked by its own verbiage," Lord Rothermere says. He declares that Canada can purchase within the empire $50,000,000 worth of goods annually that she is now getting from outside the empire.

New Alberta Loan

Provincial Issue Steadily Gaining Prestige On British Market

Edmonton, Alberta.—Closing quotations on Alberta Government bonds, recorded on the London stock exchange, is taken as evidence here that the provincial issue is steadily gaining prestige in the British market. When the issue was first floated it received a cool reception.

"News of the gain received by the Alberta government bonds is very gratifying indeed, Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer, told the Canadian Press here.

French Aviator Crashes

Lyons, France.—On the last lap of a 4,700 mile flight, Colonel Guillemey was killed in a crash on the way from Venice to Le Bourget. Commandant Goshin, his companion, was fatally injured and died in a few minutes. They left Le Bourget on July 5 and flew to Bucharest, Warsaw, Istanbul and Venice.

Seaplane Sinks

London, England.—A Royal Air Force seaplane with a crew of eight sank in the Irish Channel off Larnac, Antrim. Six of the crew were saved by the steamer "Nicoudan," the two other members of the crew landing safely later on the Antrim coast, having paddled ashore in a rubber boat.

Elected President

Hansen's Corners.

The crowd from here which followed the U.F.A. members over to the recent combined picnic at Summerfield's farm sure had a good time, with a goodly share of the prizes going to the athletes from this district. A big crowd of the adults stayed for the dance and these sure enjoyed themselves.

Local athletes are getting ready to participate in another sports day, the next one being the event the Bright Bank athletic club is putting on at the Lucknow School grounds tomorrow, the 22d.

Considerable hay has been put up in this district this season, in spite of adverse weather conditions.

2 Meals a Day, Plenty

Water, Helps Stomach.
"Since I drink plenty water, eat good meals a day and take Adlerika now and then, I've had no trouble with my stomach."—C. DeForest.

Unlike other medicine, Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing poisonous waste which caused gas and other stomach trouble. Just ONE spoonful relieves gas, sour stomach, and sick headache. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! J. F. CLARKE, Drug-gist.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS OF PROGRESS

A forgotten artist, too modest to sign his name, and a second-hand dealer form the strange combination that brought to light one of the best examples of the growth of Canada's trade with the Orient. Forty-five years ago the first ship ever to fly the house-flag of the Canadian Pacific, a flag that has since found its way into practically every port in the world, set out from Port Moody, B.C. She was the barque-rigged steamer "Abyssinia" and, such a marvel was she that the modest artist referred to transferred her graceful shape to canvas with painstaking detail.

* Another artist, chancing upon the picture, imposed it upon a photograph of the latest Canadian Pacific ship in the Orient trade, the magnificent Empress of Japan. They are shown above in exact proportion as they would have appeared passing each other on the broad wastes of the Pacific.

Some idea of the development of shipping in the 45 years may be gained by a comparison. The "Abyssinia" was 333 feet six inches long, 42½ feet wide, had a tonnage of 3,375 and a speed of 16 knots. The "Empress of Japan" is 670 feet long, 87½ feet wide, has a tonnage of 25,000 and, during her record-breaking passages between Vancouver, Victoria, Yokohama, Shanghai, Hong Kong and Manila has developed as high as 23 knots—more than half as fast again.

A strange coincidence is that the "Abyssinia" was chartered from W. G. Pearce, who later became the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company which famous Clydebank shipyard built the Empress of Japan two years ago.

U.F.A. Combined Picnic

Bright Bank and Hansen's Corner Locals held their joint picnic and dance on Friday July 8 at the farm of Henry Summerfield.

Despite the rain and cold, a large and enthusiastic crowd of members and their friends turned out to enjoy themselves.

Mr Donald MacLeod, M. L. A., and Mr Geo Bevington, U.F.A. director for East and West Edmonton, each gave addresses. Mr MacLeod spoke on Monetary Reform, while Mr Bevington gave a detailed explanation of our banking system and its weaknesses.

Sports of all kinds were held for the youngsters, and a basketball game was played between Holborn and Hansen Corners.

The dance in the evening proved a big success, and was enjoyed by a lively crowd.

Both U.F.A. Locals are in favor of making this event an annual event, but they stipulated that the Weatherman be a little more considerate.

Following are the list of events and winners.

"I see. Very well. I'll come to Oakhampton by the three train tomorrow afternoon"—repeating his instructions carefully.

"Right. That's all fixed, then."

"Quite. Mind you also fix a fine day—or night, rather! Goodbye."

A murmured farewell came back along the wire, and then Jean, replacing the receiver of his clip, ran off to apprise Lady Anne of the arrangements made.

"Lady Anne looked up from some village charity accounts which were puckering her smooth brow to smile approval."

"How nice, dear! Quite a charming plan—you'll enjoy it. Especially as there will be nothing to amuse you here tomorrow. I have two village committees to attend—I'm in a chair, so I must go. And Blaise, I know, is booked for a busy day with the estate agent, while Nick is going down to South Devon somewhere for a day's fishing. I think he goes down tonight. Really, it's quite unusually lucky that Judith should have fixed on tomorrow for her moonlight party."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Moonlight On The Moor

The moorland, warm with its subtle fragrance of gorse—like the scent of peaches when the sun is shining on them—toned with the faint tang of salt borne by clean winds that had swept across the Atlantic, came to Jean's nostrils crisp and sparkling as a draught of golden wine.

Before her, mile after mile lay the white road—a sword of civilization cleaving its way remorselessly across the green wilderness of mossy turf, and on either side rose the swelling hills and jagged peaks of the great tors, melting in the far distance into a vague, formless blur of purple that might be either cloud or tor as it merged at last into the dim haze of the horizon.

"Oh, blessed, blessed Moor!" exclaimed Jean. "How I love it! You know, half the people in the world haven't the least idea what Dartmoor is like. I was enthused to a woman about it only the other day and she actually said, 'Oh, yes—Dartmoor. It's quite flat, I suppose, isn't it?'"

"Flat!"—with sweeping disgust.

Burke, his hand on the wheel of the big car which was eating up the miles with the facility of a boa-constrictor swallowing rabbits, smiled at the indignant little snarl with which the speaker was afflicted.

"You don't like dead levels, then?" he suggested.

She shook her head.

"No, I like hills—something to look up to—to climb."

"Spiritual as well as temporal?"

She was silent a moment.

"Why, yes, I think I do." He smiledardonically.

"It's just that terrible angelic tendency of yours I complain of. It's too much for any mere material man to live up to. I wish you'd stop down to my low level occasionally. You don't seem to be afflicted with human passions like the rest of us"—he added, a note of irritation in his voice.

"Indeed I am!"

Jean spoke impulsively, out of the depths of that inner, almost unconscious self-knowledge which lies within each one of us, dormant until some lance-like question pricks it into spontaneous affirmation. She had hardly heeded whether the conversation was tending, and she regretted her frank confession the instant it had left her lips.

Burke turned and looked at her with a curious speculation in his glance.

"I wonder if that's true?" he said consideringly. "If so, they're still asleep. I'd give something to be the one to rouse them."

There was the familiar, half-turbulent quality in his voice—the sound as of something held in leash. Jean sensed the danger in the atmosphere.

"You'll rouse one of them—the quite ordinary, commonplace one of bad temper, if you talk like that," she replied prosaically. "You've got to play fair, Geoffrey—keep the spirit of the law as well as the letter."

"All's fair in love and war—as I told you before," he retorted.

"Geoffrey"—indignantly.

"Jean!" mimicking her. "Well, we won't quarrel about it now. Here we are at our journey's end. Behold the carriage drive!"

The car swung round a sharp bend and then bumped its way up a roughly-made track which served to link a species of cobbled yard, constructed at one side of the bungalow, to the road along which they came.

The track cleaved its way, rather on the principle of a railway cutting, clean through the abrupt acclivity which flanked the road that side, and rising sternly between crumbling overhanging banks, fringed with coarse grass and tufted with straggling patches of gorse and heather, debouched on to a broad plateau.

Here the road below was completely hidden from view; on all sides there stretched only a limitless vista of wild moorland, devoid of any sign of habitation save for the bare, crepuscular walls of the bungalow itself.

As the scene unfolded, Jean became conscious of a strange sense of familiarity. An inexplicable impression of having seen the place on some previous occasion, of familiarity with every detail of it—even to a recognition of its peculiar atmosphere of loneliness—took possession of her. Only she knew that it was associated in her mind with something disagreeable. Even now, as at Burke's dictation, she waited in the car while he entered the bungalow from the back, passing through in order to admit his guest by way of the front door, which had been secured upon the inside, she was aware of a feeling of intense repugnance.

And then, in a flash, recollection returned to her. This was the house of her dream—of the nightmare vision which had obsessed her during the hours of darkness following her first meeting with Geoffrey Burke.

There stood the solitary dwelling, set amid a wild and desolate country, and to one side of it grew three wretched-looking, scrubby little fir trees, all of them bent in the same direction by the keen winds as they came sweeping across the Moor from the wide Atlantic. These Fir Bungalows! Why, the very name itself might have warned her!

Her eyes fixed themselves on the green-painted door. She knew quite well what must happen next. The door would open and reveal Burke standing on the threshold. She watched it with fascinated eyes.

Presently came the sound of steps, then the grating noise of a key turning slowly in the lock. The door was flung open and Burke strode across the threshold and came to the side of the car to help her out. Jean waited, half terrified, for his first words. Would they be the words of her dream? She felt that if he chanced to say jokingly, "Will you come into my parlour?" she should scream.

"Go straight in, will you?" said Burke. "I'll just run the car round to the garage and then we might as well get tea ready before the others come. I'm starving, aren't you?"

The spell was broken. "The every-day commonplace words brought with them a rush of overpowering relief, sweeping away the dreamlike sense of unreality and terror, and as Jean nodded and responded gaily, 'Absolutely famished,' she could have laughed aloud at the ridiculous fears which had assailed her.

The inside of the bungalow was in charming contrast to its somewhat forbidding exterior. The living-rooms, furnished very simply but with a shrewd eye to comfort, communicated one with the other by means of double doors which, usually left open, obliterated the cramped feeling that the comparatively small size of the rooms might otherwise have produced, while the two lattice windows which each boasted were augmented by French windows opening out on to a veranda which ran the whole length of the building.

Jean, having delightfully explored the front portion of the bungalow, joined Burke in the kitchen, guided thither by the clinking of crockery and the cheerful crackle of a hearth fire wakened into fresh life by the scientific application of a pair of bellows.

"I had no idea you were such a domesticated individual," she remarked, as she watched him carefully warming the brown earthenware teapot as a preliminary to brewing the tea while she busied herself making hot buttered toast.

"Oh, Judy and I are independent up here, I assure you," he answered with pardonable pride. "We never bring any of the servants from Willow Ferry, but cook for ourselves. A woman comes over every morning to do the 'chores'—clean the place, and wash up the dishes from the day before, and so on. But beyond that we are self-sufficing."

"Where does your woman come from? I didn't see a house for miles round."

"No, you can't see the place, but there's a little farmstead, tucked away in a hollow about three miles from here, which provides us with cream and butter and eggs—and with our char-lady."

Jean surveyed with satisfaction a rapidly mounting pile of delicately browned toast, creaming with golden butter.

"There, that's ready," she announced at last. "I do hope Judy and Co. will arrive soon. Hot buttered toast spoils with keeping. It gets all sodden and tastes like underdone shoe leather. Do you think they'll be long?"

Burke threw a glance at the grandfather's clock ticking solemnly away in a corner of the kitchen.

"It's half-past four," he said dubiously. "I don't think I'll risk that tuscous-looking toast of yours by waiting for them. I'm going to brew the tea; the kettle's boiling."

"Won't Judith think it horrid of us not to wait?"

"Oh, Lord no! Judy and I never stand on any ceremony with each other. Any old thing might happen to delay them a bit."

Jean, frankly hungry after her spin in the car through the invigorating moorland air, yielded without further protest, and tea resolved itself into a jolly little "tete-a-tete" affair, partaken of in the shelter of the veranda, with the glorious vista of the Moor spread out before her delighted eyes.

Burke was in one of those rare moods of his which never failed to inspire her with a genuine liking for him, when the unruly, turbulent devil within him, so hardly held in check, was temporarily replaced by a certain spontaneous boyishness of a distinctly endearing quality—that "little boy" quality which, in a grown man, always appeals so irresistibly to any woman.

The time slipped away quickly, and it was with a shock of astonishment that Jean realized, on glancing down at the watch on her wrist, that over an hour and a half had gone by while they had been sitting chatting on the veranda.

"Geoffrey! Do you know it's exactly six o'clock! I'm certain something must have happened. Judy and the Holfords would surely be here by now if they hadn't had an accident of some sort."

Burke looked at his watch.

News of Baseball.

The two local ball teams played a scheduled game here on Friday last. This was the first time these teams had met since the game on Thursday June 16, when Waltham League won. Baseball fans expected the Stonies would even up the score by winning Friday's game, but the contrary proved the case, as after a very good contest in which members of both teams were doing their best, the final score stood: Waltham League 6, St. Plain 5. W-L battery, Ed Enders & Eddie Mayer; S-P battery, Ray Graden & Ph. Sinner. Umpire, Jac McGillis.

Stony Plain ball team played up at Wabamun Sunday last, with a good crowd of rooters going up from here to cheer for the Stonies. After a very good demonstration of ball playing, the Stony Plain team won from the Wabys by a score of 7 runs to 6. The Stony battery was: Ph Enders & Ph Sinner.

Sunday next, July 24, the Duffield bunch of ball players will tangle with the Stony Plainers on the local diamond. It is expected this will be a good game, with the players on both sides doing their best.

Stonies ball team went to Winterburn on Monday night for a game, but the rain interfered.

Mr J H McLaughlin is the local agent for the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. manufacturers of the Elephant Brand Fertilizer.

WHERE TO SPEND AN ENJOYABLE VACATION

Canada This Year

SINCE the annual vacation has become a definite part of modern life, the decision as to where it will be spent is of considerable importance. Canada has a particular appeal to the vacationist, for it has an unusual variety of attractions, which may be enjoyed at reasonable cost.

Recreation Areas Easily Reached

For most people, the summer vacation is limited to a few weeks and is really shortened by the time used in travelling to and from the locality selected. Canada has an extensive system of good roads and excellent railway services which greatly facilitate travel between provinces.

Attractions Cover Wide Range

Canada presents a striking diversity of natural features—the rugged and picturesque Atlantic coast; the St. Lawrence river and Great Lakes, the world's greatest inland waterway; the Laurentian mountains, land of forest and stream; the prairies; the majestic Rockies; and the beautiful Pacific coast. Each of these areas has its own attractions of scenic beauty and opportunities for enjoyable recreation. Fishing, hunting, camping, canoeing, and mountain-climbing may all be enjoyed under ideal conditions, while golf and tennis may be played practically everywhere. Accommodation includes everything from camp site to luxurious hotel.

Those to whom economy is a matter of concern may spend a pleasant vacation close to nature, at surprisingly small cost.

Travel Information Gladly Furnished

The National Development Bureau, Department of the Interior at Ottawa, has prepared a series of automobile road maps, showing the main routes from one province to another, also a number of interesting booklets, including "Vacations in Canada", which describe the tourist attractions of each province. These will be sent to any of our readers planning a vacation. Applicants should state the areas in which they are interested.

Liberal Meeting at the Grove

In the course of his address at a rally of the Liberal party Friday night at Spruce Grove, W R Howson, M.L.A., scored the Brownlee Administration, attacking the Province's settlement with the banks over the Wheat Pool guarantee as an "improvident deal."

Mr Wm McLeod presided over the meeting, there being about 50 people present. Mr Geo J Bryan gave a short address, in which he dealt with provincial affairs.

Messrs W McLeod and W E Bristow were elected delegates from Spruce Grove division to attend the Liberal convention in Edmonton next October, when a new provincial leader will be chosen.
